CROMWELL TAKES PLACE.

Messrs. Eckels, Truesdale and Fish Suggested for President.

Richard A. McCurdy's resignation as president of the Mutual Life was accepted by the board of trustees.

The report of the expert accountants on the Equitable's assets was adopted by the board of directors.

Justice Rufus W. Peckham, who resigned as a Mutual trustee, in a statement giving his reasons for so doing, spoke of his "indignation and astonishment" at the recent disclosures.

One Faction Bent on Blunting Probe. It Is Rumored.

The Mutual Life trustees at their meeting restarday accepted the resignation of President Richard A. McCurdy. Frederic Cromwell, the treasurer of the company, was elected temporary president in Mr. McCurdy's place. The resignation of Justice Rufus W. Peckham as a trustee was likewise accepted.

It was noted that President McCurdy's letter of resignation was dated last Tuesday, although on Monday a morning newspaper printed the report that Mr. McCurdy had resigned already.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL.

Behind Richard A. McCurdy's resignation and Frederic Cromwell's election to succeed him les, so a Tribune reporter learned last night, a fight to the death for control between Julien T. Davies, the new solicitor general, and the finance committee on the one hand, and the trustees, especially those who support the housecleaning committee, on the other. The reporter heard that Justice Rufus W. Peckham in resigning from the board of trustees did not, as the official" explanation intimated, plead inability to attend the board meetings as the reason for his resignation, but on the contrary sent a vigorous letter denouncing the Mutual Life management. Mr. Cromwell's election is regarded as a temporary victory for the finance

A battle royal has now begun, however, between the two factions. If the finance committee has its way in the election of a president it is said, the Truesdale probe will be permitted to penetrate no deeper, or will at best be blunted. If on the other hand the trustees score in the election of the permanent president the probing will be pushed to the very heart

Further resignations, not only of McCurdy relatives, are expected hourly, and indeed may be already in the mail. MR. M'CURDY'S LETTER.

Mr. McCurdy in his letter gives ill health as the cause of his resignation, saying that his physicians have told him that the continuance of an active business life would so impair his bealth as to endenger his life. Mr. McCurdy's letter to the trustees, which is headed "No. 200 South-st., Morristown, November 28, 1905," is

In June last, when my annual term of office expired, having the previous January reached seventy years of age, I wished to carry out my plan and decline a re-election to the presidency, but the serious disturbance which previously had arisen in life insurance affairs rendered it, as I believed, my duty to remain at my post.

I therefore accepted election for another year. I now find that in attempting to serve this company for the full term of my office I overestimated my physical powers, and my physicians, brs. Kinnicuti, Bailey and Willis, after consultation, advise me that unless I immediately retire from active business occupations my health will become so further impaired as to be pardize my life.

Under these conditions I ask the board to accept my resignation as president of the company.

The board passed the following interesting resolution, accepting the resignation: In accepting the resignation of Mr. R. A. McCurdy as president of this company, the board of trustees begs to express to him its

-Wants Best Man for the Place.

Washington, Nov. 29.—President Roosevelt has declared himself against "bossism" in New-York City politics. This declaration he has made emproved in letters to personal and political friends regarding the selection of a president of the Republican Committee of New-York County. He deprecates the interference of outsiders in the politics of the county and has indicated his view that nothing ought to be done by such outsiders that might be confounded with dictation.

The President has discussed the situation in New-York frankly with several of his callers and has written some letters to those directly interested in the New-York Republican organization. In these conversations and letters he has indicated his position regarding the situation in New-York County. He has suggested the names of five or six men, any one of whom, in his judgment, would prove an acceptable president of the New-York County Committee; but he has let it be known that he has not attempted to dictate the selection of any candidate for county chairman or proclaim his choice to any person who has approached him on the subject. He has expressed an opinion, as a citizen, that whoever is chosen chairman should be a man of the highest character and reputation and should possess the necessary independence to make it certain that he would conduct the affairs of the Republican organization in New-York County on a high prane of efficiency and integrity, without regard to any boss or any machine. The President has stated distinctly that what is needed is the right type of man, and it does not matter what particular men he is. He has urged that the only hoalthy way to treat the Republican party in New-York County is to treat it in practice, as in theory, so as to make it capable of self-government. He has concluded that all an outsider can do or ought to do with wisdom is to give such assistance as cannot be confounded with dictation to the men within the county.

President Roosevelt has not declared himself in favor of the selection of Representative L. V. V. Olectt or anybody else as the president of the New-York County Committee, although both Mr. but he has let it be known that he has not ot-

PARSONS NO ONE'S TOOL.

Says He Is Neither Mr. Odell's Nor Mr. Platt's Man.

Congressman Herbert Parsons and Congressman J. Van Vechten Olcott, the rival candidates for president of the Republican County Committee, were busy men yesterday.

Mr. Olcott was in consultation with friends the greater part of the day. He expected to have something for publication by evening, but last night decided to say nothing. He let it be known, however, that he is still in the race. Congressman Parsons, on the other hand, started out with the idea of saying nothing, and wound up by making a statement. He was in conference at his office until late last night with Senator Page, George W. Morgan and other friends. After this conference he decided to make a statement of his position.

The story was printed yesterday that Mr. Parsons had received a letter from President Roosevelt demanding that he repudiate the leadership of ex-Governor Odell. When Mr. Parsons was asked about this report he would not discuss the subject, and simply referred to his statement as a full reply. The statement is as follows:

There have been statements in the newspapers that I have received a mandate from Washington. I have not received, nor do I expect to receive, a mandate from Washington, or any other place. In order, how er, that there may be no misunderstanding as to my position in my candidacy for the presidency of the Republican County Committee. I reiterate that, if elected, I will recognize no factional discriminations of any kind in the Republican party. I will regard myself as the representative neither of Mr. Odell nor of Mr. Platt and as owing fealty to no machine and no boss, but as standing in an absolutely independent position resolved to conduct, so far as in my power les, the affairs of the party upon the highest plane of cleanliness and uprightness, of entire independence of any kind of dictation and with an eye single to making the party, so far as my power extends, subserve the best interests of the people. I am and at all times have been convinced that only in this way can I be, as only in this way would I be willing to be, of service to the party in that position.

If any member of the county committee has pledged his support to me, supposing thereby that such support commits me by obligation of any sort to favor the State leadership of any particular man, such member of the county committee has acted under a misapprehension, and is, so far as I am concerned, released from any pledge to vote for or support me. If I am elected I shall consider my election as the success of the principle for which I stand—that is, the county organization's freedom from interference or dictation, and not as the success of either Senator Platt or ex-Governor Odell, or of the faction of either of them; and my responsibility will be, as I have repeatedly stated, to the Republican voters of the county committee as their representatives alone.

dence of Foul Play.

The body of a man, decided to be John N. Tisdale, the mining operator who has been missing from his apartments in the Hotel Seville since November 5, was taken from the Harlem River at Lincoln-ave., The Bronx, last night. The clothing, the measurements of the body, and a watch found in one of the pockets, with the initials "J. N. T.," all correspond with the description of Mr. Tisdale furnished by the police, The description of the body and the face and clothing given to Mrs. Tisdale at her apartments late in the night caused her to exclaim: must be he! It must be he"

Mrs. Tisdale fainted after being told of the finding of the body and was in a serious condition at midnight. Detective sergeants Police Headquarters who saw the body declared there was no doubt but it is that of the missing Western mining operator.

Dr. St. Clair Smith, family physician of the Tisdales, visited Fordham Morgue at midnight and positively identified the body there as that of his patron, J. N. Tindale. The body will be turned over to the family to-day after a formal

The special detectives on the case had given unusual attention, chiefly because Mr. Tisdale was a close friend of ex-Superintendent of Elections McCullough. Mr. McCullough gave them a detailed description of Mr. Tisdale and his habits, which correspond minutely with the body found.

Patrolman Finnegan, of the Alexander-ave dation, discovered the body as he was patrolling the river front. It was floating within 100 feet of the river's edge. He called several boatmen to his aid and got the body on to the pier. While searching the clothes for something which might lead to identification of the body the policeman found $33.90 and a gold watch, No. 12,082.

There was a cut on the forehead over the right eye, and at first the policeman was inclined to think there had been foul play. Coroner Berry, however, on viewing the body, discovered that the wound was tresh and probably had been made by a propeller blade. An autopsy will be performed at Fordham to determine the cause of death.

Finnegan reported to his station at once, and the sergeant sent to the Morgue at Fordham a picture of Mr. Tisdale. Although the body is in a had state of decomposition, its resemblance to the picture was traced easily. N. W. Corlett, the stepson of Mr. Tisdale, has been scouring the surrounding country for dis father. He was in Boston yesterday, but it was learned that he had left there in the evening for New-York. Mrs. Tisdale may not be able to see the body for some days.

Much mystery surrounded the disappearance of Mr. Tisdale, and his closest friends feared foul play. He sent his wife ahead to this city to procure apartments at the Seville while he stayed in the South on business. He joined her here late in October. On the night on which he left the Seville he told his wife he was going to a directors meeting in Boston. There was a meeting the following day of some company in which he was interested, but Mr. Tisdale was not there. When he did not turn up the third day Mrs. Tisdale informed the police of his disappearance.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune] Indianapolis, Nov. 29.—As they returned to their home near Upjohn, Posey County, late last night, Charles and Jacob Sturms discovered a crosstie wired to the track of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and so braced that it would certainly have wrecked the coming train. A few moments after the obstruction was removed the southbound Florida flyer came alona. The tie had been fastened to the track on a curve, and it is believed that robbery of the passengers was the motive.

St. Petersburg, Nev. 29.-Father Gapon is here in hiding. In an interview to-day he expressed the opinion that the revolutionary leadrs were making the tactical mistake which he made before January 22, of preaching arms ebellion, a democratic republic and an immediate eight hour day. He added that his residence broad had opened his eyes. Time was neces sary to realize the socialistic ideals. Father Gapon continued:

The peasantry are now stirred to the depths of their minds. Their consciousness is growing, but they firmly cling to the idea of an emperor. The real hostility of the peasants is against the bureaucracy and landlords, and they can easily be turned against the intellectuals. The workmen of the cities are aroused to a high pitch. They imagine they can immediately realize the millennium, but if the revolutionary tactles try the workmen too often by starvation; if the leaders call strikes without considering the chances of success, then they will be forced to surrender.

After tens of thousands have been thrown into the streets to starve and freeze the leaders will soon lose control of their followers, and they will join the Black Hundred and other rowdies in producing a reign of terror and anarchy.
